Finding cures. Saving children.

A torrential rainfall in May postponed this year's ESC tournament, moving it into the sweltering heat of late July. Despite the change, the 2019 ESC was still an overwhelming success! This year featured the most teams ever to participate in an ESC tournament thanks to a continued interest from the engineering and construction communities as well as the addition of some owner/operating facility teams.

Sigma continued their dominance of the Engineering Division winning their third title in a row, and their fourth in five years. In the Construction Division, MMR took the crown to become the fourth different team to win the division in the four years of its existence.

Softball is the main event of the day, but raising money for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is a very important aspect of the ESC tournament. We were blessed to have two families that are currently being treated at St. Jude's attend the event and share their stories, providing a very touching reminder of why we all support the ESC.

The tournament brought in more money than ever before with a total of $28,070.55, bringing the grand total over 7 years to $155,597.94!

Special thanks to all of the people that sponsored, volunteered, played, or attended the tournament. The ESC is continually successful because of everyone's support. Dan Forman and Tom Polito might get a lot of the recognition, but there is a whole team of people that make this event a success and without them, it could not happen.
